Euro Cold is characterized by continuous improvements to its range and pursues the goal of making its products more and more environmentally friendly.

The decision to use microchannel condensation coils not only allows an improvement in the efficiency of the equipment, but also consents to have an eye on the environment.

Thanks to this solution it is in fact possible to achieve a significant reduction in the refrigerant charge (up to -70%), significantly reducing potential CO<sub>2</sub> emissions during the life of the equipment, as well as a lower impact on end-of-life machine.

In order to maximize the efficiency of the machine, air filters are fitted as standard.

Last but not least, to meet outdoor installation requirements, the protection rating of the electrical panel has been improved, guaranteeing an IP 54 rating on the entire range.
